Kerala

Kerala...The God's own country

Kerala, meaning "land of coconut trees", is one of the relatively well kept secrets of all the exotic destinations in the world. However, Kerala's popularity has increased over recent years. "National Geographic" travel magazine lists Kerala among the fifty must see locations in the world. Not surprisingly, the State Tourism Department promotes Kerala's natural beauty, breathtaking lush landscape and tropical beaches as "God's own country". The result has been a significant influx of tourists and foreign visitors. The Sanskrit saying "athithi devo bhava" ( treat your guest like God, with respect and honour) is ingrained in the collective ethos of the people of Kerala.

"Kerala - One of the six destinations of the millennium" - Khaleej Times

"Kerala Tourism - the best State that promoted tourism in India" - Outlook Traveller

"Kerala - One of the 10 paradises of the World" - National Geographic Travel

Beaches

Beaches

The Kerala coast is lined with unspoilt sandy beaches and offers perfect setting for a relaxing beach holiday away from the crowds. The beaches provide ample scope for - Relax in the sun for that sexy "Tan", frolic in the sand, swim in tropical waters, converse with the local fisherman, buy the fresh catch, take it to the sea side vendor and get the fish cooked for you. In the evening admire the kaleidoscopic view of the sun set, enjoying a romantic candle lit dinner in the many open air sea shore restaurants that dot the beaches. In the night stroll along the beaches with the cool, saline breeze blowing on the coconut groves along the coastal hamlets that brings a whiff of

Backwaters

Kerala offers a unique network of lagoons, lakes canals and estuaries and deltas of rivers. The backwaters of Kerala is a self supporting eco-system teeming with aquatic life. The backwaters vary in dimension from narrow streams to wide lakes. The main towns and cities around the network of backwaters are Alleppey, Kumarakom, Kottayam, Quilon and Cochin.

Life on the backwaters is different, water being the key to everything. On the banks are lush green rice fields spreading into the distance and coconut groves with scattered temples or churches. People living on the banks depend on various types of boats (vallams, in local language, Malayalam), which are specially designed to meet the purpose for which they are used. The "vallams" vary from small narrow boats called "kothumbu vallam" which can accommodate one to two person, used for commuting, to large "ketuvallams" which can carry a payload of up to 30 tonnes.

Wild Life

Hills and Wild Life

Befriend an elephant Shake hands Discover the elephant's point of view. Feast your eyes on the most exotic of wildlife. And realize that there's much more to life when a deer stops to look at you. When a monkey decides to renew acquaintance. When a blue-winged Parakeet sings for you.

Ponmudi

An Idyllic hill resort with narrow, winding pathways and cool, green, wooded environs, Ponmudi is located 915 m above sea level. Along with a variety of beautiful mountain flowers, exotic butterflies, small rivulets, springs and the deer park nearby, this hill station also has excellent trekking trails.

A land locked district, Idukki is one of the most nature rich areas of Kerala. The high ranges and wooded valleys are girded by three main rivers - Periyar, Thalayar, and Thodupuzhayar and their tributaries. The river Pamba also has its origin here. As a tourist destination, Idukki offers diverse attractions like wildlife sanctuaries, hill stations, spice plantations tours, mountain treks, elephant rides etc.

Munnar

Munnar is situated at the confluence of three mountain stream - Mudrapuzha, Nallathanni and kundala. 1600 m above sea level, this hill station was the summer resort of the British Government in South India. Sprawling tea plantations, picture-book towns, winding lanes and holiday facilities make this a popular hill station.
